manager or not. If you assign a license with the license manager you get the warning of the license already in use by another (assigned) asset. If you register the asset that has the license with the license manager you get the warning that the license is still assigned but its already registered. Q: Zoom programmatically in Photoshop JS Is it possible in Photoshop to programmatically zoom in? I have to create a web application in which the user can click on a button to zoom in, and a label needs to be displayed. My problem is that I have a fixed size for that label which is determined by the CSS style. So I need to zoom into that label with the size I have in my CSS. Is this possible in Photoshop?

A: You can create a new layer then scale it down to the desired size. It'll wrap around the whole image so be sure you keep proportions. If you're using something like Photoshop CC you can use the ctrl or option key to zoom out. Identification of thiazolidine-2,4-dione derivatives that bind to the catalytic domain of telomerase reverse transcriptase.

Telomerase is a ribonucleoprotein that is reactivated during cancer and allows telomeres to maintain their length and thus facilitate cell proliferation and tumor growth. To identify telomerase inhibitors, we screened a library of 1,000 compounds selected from NIH Clinical Collection.
