NEW METHODS OF LITERATURE STUDIES. THEORIES AND FORECASTING: TRICHOMEDIA OF LITERATURE STUDIES: theory and methodology of a new theoretical trend in literary criticism, implicitly implying a transformation of views on the nature of creativity. The conceptual origins of this direction are shown.
Indicators of the degree of development of the theory. The circle of scientific interests of the author is shown. The sharpness of the formulation of the problem is shown: who needs theories of literary creativity and why. At the same time, it should be noted that the debatable aspect in determining the content of the concept of "literary creativity" is ambiguous, since the analysis of literature as a whole shows that there is literature, and there is "liturgy". However, now we can confidently say that this requires its "anthropological" component, scientific understanding of this process, as well as reference to the "lyrical" or "epic" genres. An indicator of the mass character and popularity of literature, including poetry. Does the skill of the writer show? Shows, and the more his talent, the more fully the "bouquet" of genres is revealed. Do errors show the talent of a writer? - Not least. In the end, it is a matter of motivation and ability for literary creativity. Showing the successes of literature, the author focuses on its authorial and public initiatives, and not on the preservation and development of already accumulated, in some cases, iconic elements. It is shown to which intermediate stages in the course of the historical process literature can pass. Indications for publication: teachers and students of pedagogical, philological faculties, universities, teachers, lecturers, specialists interested in studying pedagogy. Indication for publication - schoolchildren, applicants, students interested in literature. Indication - for researchers involved in literary criticism. Indications - for all readers. Sussex Review is a one volume book review of new books containing analysis of the latest literature.
