A: This can be done by using the `str_replace` function. `$str = "YourName"; $replacement = "Your Name"; echo str_replace($str, $replacement, 'Hello');` This will return the output: Hello, not Your Name. To return the name as well use this: `$str = "YourName"; $replacement = "Your Name"; $get_the_name = str_replace($str, $replacement, ""); echo $get_the_name;` Now it will return: Hello, "Your Name" Q: Why does my in my not appear until I manually refresh the page? I have an asp.net web application which has a page with a number of drop down lists. The first drop down works perfectly, the second one however, upon submitting the form, does not. I have 3 drop down lists inside a and they all work when I first load the page. However, when I submit the form, the 2nd and 3rd drop down lists do not appear. They are supposed to appear on the next page as the user submits the form. The 2nd and 3rd drop down lists have the same data sources as the first drop down so I can't figure out why it wouldn't work. When I refresh the page, the 3rd drop down shows up but not the 2nd one. I am using an `asp:updatePanel` to update the 2nd and 3rd drop down lists upon click of a submit button. All of the drop down lists have the `runat="server"` attribute. I am sure this is something simple that I am just not grasping but any help is appreciated. Thanks. Edit: I added a button on my form and it also does not work. This form is a copy of the one that does work, 82138339de
