ksLogger Description: The system monitor/keystroke logger allows you to monitor and log all keystrokes made on your computer. The process name can be changed to anything you like and you can define the location and name of the log file. It captures keystrokes in a log file that you can watch in real time or a later time using a Windows application. You can also capture the captions of all visible windows so you can see what programs are running. You can stop capturing keystrokes at any time and you can change the process name at any time. You can see keystrokes in the same format as in Key Scan, so you can tell what programs are running, and what keys they are using. You can also use it to spy on your spouse/children/colleagues, etc. ksLogger Demo: ksLogger Demo: Run ksLogger Demo to see a demonstration of its features. ksLogger Downloads: ksLogger Downloads: If you're looking for a good keylogger, try out this one. keyLogger for Android: keyLogger for Android: keyLogger is a FREE, mobile keylogger application that uses a phone's accelerometer to capture the keys pressed by the user.
