The raw motion capture data is passed through a neural network using an "expert level" of artificial intelligence, and then the network generates 4,000 optimized parameters that can be used to enhance real-world player movement and moves. The results are visible in-game to help give players unparalleled control of players, ball possession and game flow. Scoreline FIFA 22 introduces "HyperMotion Technology," a breakthrough in gameplay animation that uses a combination of motion capture data, artificial intelligence, and physics simulation to provide players with unprecedented, refined control of the ball and movement on the pitch. "For some time, we have been looking to develop a more intelligent AI that could deal with the nuances of football," Richard Brookes, Head of FIFA's Global Live Services, told FIFA.com. "In the last few years, we have seen development in this area, but until now we have been limited to a simplistic static model. We are very excited about this new approach and the potential it has to help us drive a true next-gen football experience." "Essentially, the technology we are using is a form of artificial intelligence that's been deployed in a new way," explained Richard Britton, Head of Creative for Electronic Arts. "Like the AI we deploy in other games, the AI we deploy here reacts to things that players do, but is programmed to also react to things that would be done under circumstances more realistic for a match. For example, players might hit the floor to avoid an aerial ball if they know they are not going to be able to jump high enough, but the AI may be programmed to do that anyway." Konami Football Highlights Tournament enables players to make their own videos "For the first time in FIFA history, the game does not need to know anything about the reality of the game being played. From a player's position, you can move the ball through whatever space, rather than that space being predictable. The limitations of artificial intelligence are gone, and you can have the game react to everything you do. We could have done the same thing using scripted sequences on top of live, real football. "That means we can make any kind of movement a player could make in real life, and then, for the first time, the game

Features Key:

- The new Finishing Drives – Spot-on accuracy is essential to complete the special moves. Take a step back, and use your opponent's movement to your advantage by running at his leg, using his juke and not get caught out. Get the ball into a good area, put it on a dead banger, and move away while you count to three – if the pass is accurate enough, you'll get the wonderkick!
- Giant Goalkeepers – Line up your best 11 and get ready to play as your primary goalkeeper. Show off your skills as you attempt to thwart shots at your upper-90-degree cushion from eight different angles, including bottom, right, left, and top.
- New Formation – Pin point accuracy – FIFA has always empowered creators with the freedom to design and build their club line-up in any way they want. Now fans can play out their dreams by creating the best possible FCs in the game. The new Formation system allows fans to take a more holistic approach to player rotation, offering three distinct formations – the 4-3-3, 5-4-1 and 4-3-2-1. The formations can be built and customized by your created FC to give new tactical freedoms in approach.

Player-Centric View: As a Football fan you now have the ability to play using either an in-game Camera or a Player-Centric View. In Camera you are viewed from behind the player, giving you a 360 degree view. Viewing from behind the player gives you a different perspective than choosing to see the player from the side view. Even better, Player-Centric View allows you to see every face in the crowd and take in the emotion on the pitch. Player Card: Each player can be tracked by the game in a Player Card. It allows you to see the individual stats for every player, including their Skills, Passes, Headers, Close Shoots and Game Control. New Faces: Add many new faces and change the way you play using the All-New Squad Assistant. The Assistant will suggest tactics, pre-match preparations and post-match analysis. Game Intelligence: The "Play Football" core of FIFA is supported by our Game Intelligence. With Game Intelligence bc9d6d6da

Serum soluble interleukin-2 receptor and transforming growth factor-beta1 as independent markers of disease activity in systemic lupus erythematosus. To investigate the relationship between the levels of serum interleukin-2 (IL-2) receptor and transforming growth factor-beta1 (TGF-beta1) and disease activity in systemic lupus erythematosus (SLE). Twenty-seven patients with SLE, 8 healthy volunteers and 20 rheumatoid arthritis (RA) patients with an average disease duration of 8 years were included. Serum levels of soluble IL-2 receptor (sIL-2R), TGF-beta1, antinuclear (ANA) antibodies, rheumatoid factor (RF), erythrocyte sedimentation rate (ESR) and C-reactive protein (CRP) were measured. In the SLE group, systemic lupus erythematosus disease activity index (SLEDAI) and its components were also calculated. The levels of sIL-2R were significantly higher in SLE patients than in healthy and RA controls (p
